Life in DUBAI

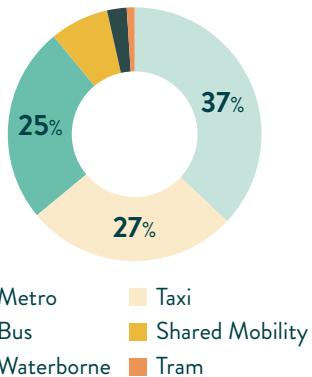

Modern. Ambitious. International.

Our Local Host, the Roads and Transport Authority (RTA) plays a central role in shaping Dubai's mobility landscape.

In one of the world's fastest-growing cities, providing high-quality infrastructure is essential. With strong government commitment to delivering an advanced, integrated transport system, RTA continuously works to enhance public transport services and improve the emirate's road network—ensuring travel is safer, smarter, and smoother for all.

In 2009, the city launched the world's longest driverless metro at the time. Then in 2014, Dubai inaugurated a new and modern tram network. There were also huge increases in bicycle and waterborne networks.

% OF PUBLIC TRANSPORT RIDERSHIP (2024)

Network length (km)				Change 2006 vs 2024
Mode	2006	2020	2024
Metro	0	74.3	89.3	-
Bus	2,095	3,810	3,974	+90%
Bicycle	9	463	560.5	+6,128%
Waterborne	1.35	85.81*	151.44	+11,118%
Tram	0	10.6	10.6	-

Data from RTA Annual Report 2023.

*Waterborne 2020 data: 2021

They say build it and they will come, and it is true. In 2024, Dubai broke a ridership record of over 747 million passengers across public transport, shared mobility, and taxis. That's a jump of 400 million riders from 2017.

Today, those passengers benefit from an extensive and cutting-edge public transport network.

When you join the UITP Summit, you are arriving at a time of major change for Dubai:

- ✓ Launch of air taxis
- ✓ Ongoing modal shift
- ✓ Roll-out of autonomous taxis
- ✓ Extensive new cycling network on track for 2026 target
- ✓ And more!
