HAMBURG: A Model City for Mobility

The UITP Summit returns to Hamburg in 2027, reaffirming the city's leadership in urban mobility innovation. Hamburg, Germany's second-largest city, is renowned for its advanced public transport system and cutting-edge digital strategy.

Named a "Metropolitan Model Region for Mobility",

Hamburg is home to sustainable, efficient, and smart public transport solutions that continue to inspire cities worldwide.

And in 2027, Hamburg will once again bring together the global mobility community for another unmissable edition of the UITP Summit.
